In case of foreclosure of this mortgage said mortgagee shall have the right upon filing suit to take possession of the premises or have a receiver appointed at once when the suit is commenced to take possession thereof and to rent the same and apply the rents and profits to any disbursements that will best conserve the interests of the holders of said notes, and said rents and profits may be used for the payment of taxes, insurance and expenses of keeping the property in good repair and condition until the year of the equity of redemption expires or the indebtedness paid, and any balance remaining, in case of deficit shall go to apply on the indebtedness hereby secured. In case a trustee should be named as mortgagee herein, then in the event of a foreclosure the same may be brought in the name of such trustee mortgagee or in the name or names of the holder or holders of the notes secured as such holders may elect.
