

Illinois Statutory Short Form Power of Attorney for Property

■ What is a Durable Power of Attorney for Property?

A Durable Power of Attorney is a document in which a person, called the principal, can delegate to another person, including a trusted friend or family member, the power to become his or her agent (the person who will act for the principal) for any type of property decision the principal is unable to make. The agent, who does not need to be an attorney, will speak for the principal and make decisions according to the principal's wishes even when the principal is physically or mentally incapacitated.

■ Must an attorney prepare the form for you?

Although Illinois law does not require that an attorney prepare a Durable Power of Attorney document, for proper guidance and to protect your own interests you may choose to involve your lawyer anyway.

■ What are the advantages of having a Durable Power of Attorney for Property?

A Durable Power of Attorney for Property is flexible and can apply to a number of situations. It will permit you, if you are the principal, to decide who should make decisions, on your behalf, about your personal business or property rather than leaving the decision-making to the courts. It saves your relatives from the burden of having to make those decisions without knowing your wishes. For example, a Durable Power of Attorney can be used by you to designate one or more specific powers which are best suited to your needs, for example: to authorize real estate and stock transactions; to handle banking, tax or other types of business matters; to represent you in court; or to address other types of legal claims. A Durable Power of Attorney for Property can assure that your desires and your agent's authority will be honored by others at the time the power of attorney is exercised.

■ What are the legal requirements or provisions?

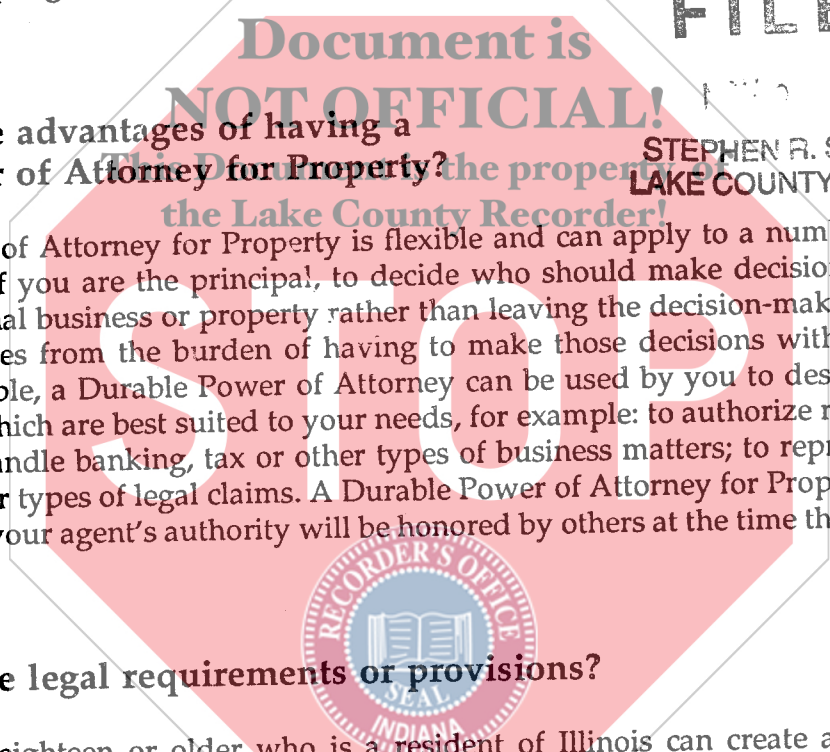

Any person age eighteen or older who is a resident of Illinois can create a Durable Power of Attorney. The person whom you designate as your agent must be over the age of eighteen. The Durable Power of Attorney form must be signed by you and your signature must be notarized.

When exercising the Power of Attorney, your agent must use due care when acting for your benefit and must act in accordance with the terms which you have specified in your Power of Attorney for Property. He or she will be liable for any negligent exercise of the duties which you have specified.

■ How long will your Durable Power of Attorney last?

As the principal, you can specify the time which the Durable Power of Attorney will begin and when it will end. In addition, your Power of Attorney can be amended at any time by a written amendment signed and dated by you.

In addition, you may amend or revoke your Power of Attorney at any time and in any manner in which you communicate your desired changes or revocation to the agent or to any other person related to the types of powers specified in the power of attorney.

Unless you state an earlier termination date, the Power of Attorney will continue until your death.

■ When should you designate a Power of Attorney?

The best time for you to create a Power of Attorney is right now, long before you anticipate anything happening to you. This will ensure that if you are ever in a situation where you need an agent, you will have one.

■ Will your Durable Power of Attorney for Property be recognized in another state?

Most state statutes provide that a power of attorney may be either general or specific and do recognize a power of attorney. However, a problem may arise concerning whether or not a document must be witnessed and/or notarized, as may be required in a particular state's law. Since there may be variations among state laws, it is suggested that you should have your Power of Attorney Document for Property both witnessed and notarized.

■ Other things to consider --

Before executing your Durable Power of Attorney for Property, you should talk to the person who you want to be your agent and review your wishes for the ways you would like for your property transactions to be handled in the event that your agent must exercise his or her Power of Attorney.

It is advisable for you to specify one or more successor agents to act in your behalf in case the primary agent is unavailable, unable or unwilling to act in your behalf should it become necessary. The primary consideration should be that the individuals appointed are people in whom you have a great deal of trust and can rely upon to act according to your interests and values. Your Power of Attorney document should also state the duties, limitations, immunities and other terms applicable to your agent.

After your Power of Attorney for Property document is signed by you and notarized, you should send the original form to your agent and provide copies to your lawyer, and to family members or close friends on whom you can rely to act according to your interests and values.

Illinois Statutory Short Form Power of Attorney for Property
(Effective January 1, 1990)

(Notice: The purpose of this Power of Attorney is to give the person you designate (your "agent") broad powers to handle your property, which may include powers to pledge, sell or otherwise dispose of any real or personal property without advance notice to you or approval by you. This form does not impose a duty on your agent to exercise granted powers; but when powers are exercised, your agent will have to use due care to act for your benefit and in accordance with this form and keep a record of receipts, disbursements and significant actions taken as agent. A court can take away the powers of your agent if it finds the agent is not acting properly. You may name successor agents under this form but not co-agents. Unless you expressly limit the duration of this power in the manner provided below, until you revoke this power or a court acting on your behalf terminates it, your agent may exercise the powers given here throughout your lifetime, even after you become disabled. The powers you give your agent are explained more fully in Section 3-4 of the Illinois "Statutory Short Form Power of Attorney for Property Law" of which this form is a part (see pages 6, 7 and 8 of this form). That law expressly permits the use of any different form of power of attorney you may desire. (If there is anything about this form that you do not understand, you should ask a lawyer to explain it to you.)

Statutory Short Form Power of Attorney for Property Law

Section 3-4. Explanation of powers granted in the statutory short form power of attorney for property. This Section defines each category of powers listed in the statutory short form power of attorney for property and the effect of granting powers to an agent. When the title of any of the following categories is retained (not struck out) in a statutory property power form, the effect will be to grant the agent all of the principal's rights, powers and discretions with respect to the types of property and transactions covered by the retained category, subject to any limitations on the granted powers that appear on the face of the form. The agent will have authority to exercise each granted power for and in the name of the principal with respect to all of the principal's interests in every type of property or transaction covered by the granted power at the time of exercise, whether the principal's interests are direct or indirect, whole or fractional, legal, equitable or contractual, as a joint tenant or tenant in common or held in any other form; but the agent will not have power under any of the statutory categories (a) through (o) to make gifts of the principal's property, to exercise powers to appoint to others or to change any beneficiary whom the principal has designated to take the principal's interests at death under any will, trust, joint tenancy, beneficiary form or contractual arrangement. Re: Charlotte White

To Whom It May Concern:

Please let it be known that Mrs. White is currently suffering from a terminal illness and is hospitalized at Community Hospital in Munster, Indiana.

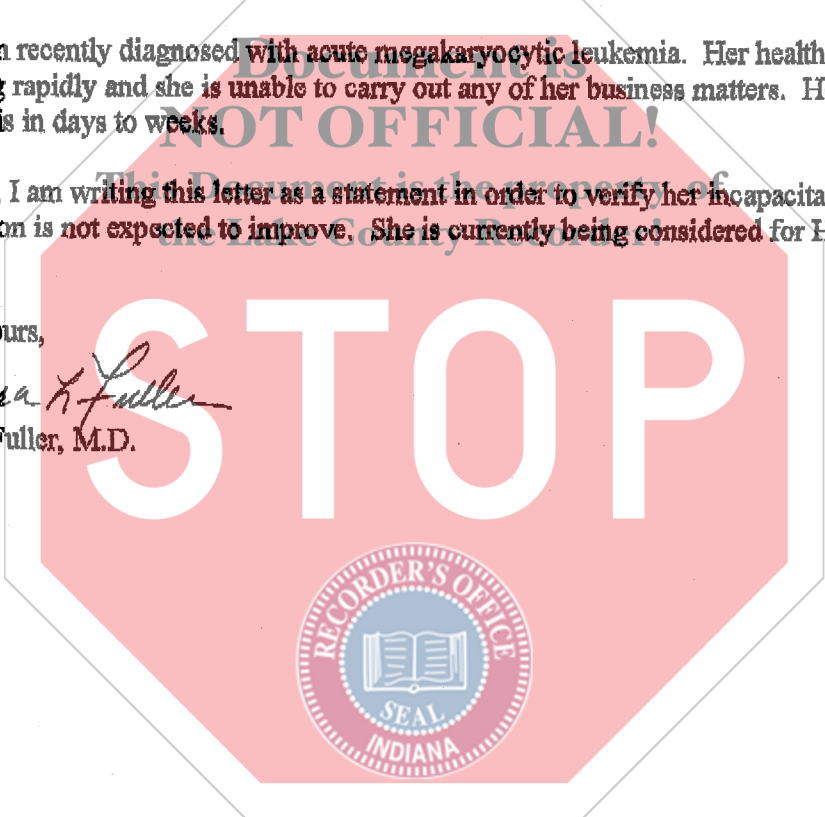

She has been recently diagnosed with acute megakaryocytic leukemia. Her health is deteriorating rapidly and she is unable to carry out any of her business matters. Her life expectancy is in days to weeks.

At this time, I am writing this letter as a statement in order to verify her incapacitation. This condition is not expected to improve. She is currently being considered for Hospice care.

Sincerely yours,
